CORRECTED TEXT LORD'S DAY BILL

Some Senate Errors Found Which Have Been Amended
by Commons.

CANADIAN NEWS NOTES

Hon. J. M. Langley of Halifax One of Speakers at Opening of Winnipeg Fair.

O TTAWA, July 23.—(Special).—A special edition of the Canada Gazette will be issued tomorrow containing the corrected text of the Lord's Day Bill. The version printed in Saturday's Gazette materially altered clause 15, which states that prosecution must be authorized by the provincial attorney general and instituted within sixty days. It also included conveyance express matter among exemptions. This was a Senate amendment, not concurred in by the Commons, and not included in the bill assented to. Other errors will doubtless be found later, but fortunately will not come into force until the first of March next.

The Canadian agent at Paris reports to the trade and commerce department that the tariff war between France and Spain will result in giving Canadian fish and apples a substantial preference in French markets over similar products from France.

Winnipeg's Exhibition

Winnipeg, July 23.—Hon. J. W. Langley, of Halifax, ex-attorney general of Nova Scotia, was one of the speakers at the opening of the Industrial exhibition here today. Judge Langley is in the west for the purpose of gathering data for the history of Canada which he is writing. That dramatic period in which Louis Riel was such a conspicuous figure will receive special attention. Justice Langley recognizes strong personal endowments of the unfortunate insurgent chief. He will devote considerable time to St. Boniface getting facts and details concerning the famous Metis leader. The history, when completed will be very comprehensive embracing several large volumes. The first volume will be ready for publication in about a year. "Development of Western Canada is the great feature of the present from a Dominion standpoint," said the historian. "Winnipeg and Manitoba have already assumed a most prominent position in the national life, Saskatchewan and Alberta will each in time overshadow Ontario. The Maritime provinces will eventually become but a fringe of the great agricultural and industrial portion of the country."

A Narrow Escape

Montreal, July 23.—Dr. G. Finley, secretary of the Medical Board of the general hospital, narrowly escaped being crushed to death beneath the wheels of a St. Antoine street car today. The injured physician now lies in the general hospital, but good hopes are entertained for his recovery. Dr. Finley was driving down Aqueduct street and when making a crossing the car moving at a good rate of speed, crashed into his buggy overturning the rig and throwing the surgeon to the pavement with much force. After emergency treatment he was taken to the general hospital. When examined by Dr. Robertson he was found to be suffering from scalp wounds, slight concussion and bruises on the body and arm. No bones were broken, but he was severely shaken up. The buggy was wrecked but the horse escaped.

Orillia Mystery

Orillia, Ont., July 23.—The body of a man was found lying on the railway track by the brakeman of a freight train which had passed over him. Some mystery surrounds the man's death from the fact that shortly before the body was found loud cries of murder were heard by residents in the vicinity. An inquest was held by Coroner McLennan, but no light was thrown on the mystery, and an adjournment was made. The body has been identified as that of Robert Barber, who had been employed on the new C. P. R. line at Coldwater. He is said to have come from Guelph.

ing himself W. C. Bayne, obtained $500 from the Home Bank of Canada at the head office today. The fraud was discovered and reported some hours afterward in making up accounts for the day, and recalled the sensational cheque raising game at Wenton at the Bank of Commerce and Imperial bank, when $2,000 was secured. The cheque presented at the Home bank was made out for $5, and was cleverly altered after being marked by the ledgerkeeper to read $500. It was presented to the paying teller, the payment being made. The young man is thought to be a stranger from across the line, and it is believed that he got safely away before the swindle was discovered.

Growth of Alberta

Edmonton, Alta., July 23.—During the first ten months of the existence of the department of education for Alberta there has been erected one-fifth as many schools as the province originally contained. Since September, 1905, 112 new schools have been established.

Will of Late William Hendrie

Hamilton, July 23.—The will of the late William Hendrie has been filed for probate. The estate is valued in round figures at $2,300,000, of which $1,963,727.50 is in stocks and bonds. The estate is divided equally among the children, Col. J. H. Hendrie, M. P. P. Wm. Hendrie, George Hendrie, Murray Hendrie, Mrs. John D. Hay, Toronto; Mrs. A. D. Braithwaite, Toronto; Mrs. Eckford, High River Alb.; Mrs. Leyden, Detroit; Miss Hendrie and Miss Phyllis Hendrie. The widow is left the homestead and an annuity; $5,000 is left to the Hamilton charities. The sons and Mrs. Hendrie are executors. The succession duties payable to the Ontario government amount to $125,000.

SLUMP ON THE BOURSE

Financial Effect of the Imperial Manifesto Causes Great Apprehension.

PARIS, July 23.—The Russian situation absorbs the attention of officials, the public and the press of Paris and the effect is particularly apparent on the Bourse, where the slump in Russian securities today almost caused a panic.

The financial effect of the imperial manifesto is causing apprehension as one of the chief inducements to the taking up of the last Russian loan was the important of our tasks, that of the reform of the peasants' laws.

Agrarian Reforms

"Our will on this point is unshakable and Russian husbandmen, without other people being encroached upon, will be supplied in cases where peasants' lands are too small, with legal and honest means for the enlargement of their property. Representatives of other classes will, at our request, devote all efforts to the realization of this great task, which will be supported definitely in a legislative manner by future parliament.

"In dissolving parliament, we confirm our immutable intention of keeping this institution, and in conformity with this intention we appoint March, 1907, the date for the convocation of the new parliament by ukase addressed to the senate.

"With an unshaken belief in divine clemency and the good sense of the Russian people, we shall expect from the new parliament a realization of our efforts by their introduction of legislation in connection with the requirements of regenerated Russia.

"Faithful sons of Russia, your emperor calls on you to unite with him for the regeneration of the holy fatherland."

DECLARED A DIVIDEND.

Rosland, B. C., July 23.—The Canadian Mining & Smelting company of Canada has declared a dividend of 21.2 per cent on its capital stock, payable on August 1st. The capital is $5,000,000 but there is about $800,000 still in the treasury. This is the second quarterly dividend for the year. The company early in the year announced that it would pay quarterly dividends at the rate of 10 per cent per annum.

STOLEN RACEHORSE FOUND.

Winnipeg, July 23.—The race horse Friendless, which was stolen from the New Orleans racetrack during the meeting there last spring, and which was discovered by the sheriff of Louisiana at the Brandon races on May 24, was seized by the sheriff in the racing stables at the exhibition grounds here today, a lengthy legal battle having finally terminated in favor of the Louisiana authorities. The horse was entered in races at the fair, but will be scratched and returned to the United States.

FIRE AT GRAND FORKS.

Forty Thousand the Estimated Loss—Narrow Escape of Town.

Grand Forks, B. C., July 23.—The largest fire in Grand Forks happened at one o'clock this morning. The big furniture store of J. W. Jones, worth $30,000; an old printing office owned by F. H. McCarter, valued at $500, and three small dwellings belonging to Charles E. Knapp, valued at $500, were totally destroyed. It is reported that Jones' furniture store was covered by some $15,000 insurance. Mr. Jones is at present in the Similkameen district.

Various reports are current as to the cause of the fire. The brigade did good work and checked the fire, otherwise it would have consumed the Vale hotel and other buildings further up Riverside avenue.

Imperial Manifesto

St. Petersburg, July 23.—Following is the text of the imperial manifesto dissolving parliament:

"We called the representatives of the nation by our will to the work of productive legislation, confiding firmly in divine clemency and believing in the great and brilliant future of our people. We expected benefits for the country from their labors. We proposed great reforms in all departments of the nation's life. We have always devoted the greatest care to the removal of the ignorance of the people by the light of instruction and to the removal of the burdens of the people by facilitating the conditions of great work."

"A cruel disappointment has befallen our expectations. The representatives of the nation, instead of applying themselves to the work of productivity, strayed into a sphere beyond their competence and have been making comments on the imperfections of the fundamental laws, which can only be modified by our imperial will. In short, the representatives of the nation have undertaken really illegal acts, such as an appeal to the nation by the parliament.

Confusion Arises

"Sketch of His Career

Russell Sage was born in Oneida county, New York, on August 4th, 1816, and was nearly 90 years of age at the time of his death. In early life he was for some years active in politics in the city of Troy, where he moved and engaged in mercantile pursuits after receiving a public school education. From 1841 to 1848 he was an alderman of the city mentioned, and served for seven years as treasurer of Rensselaer county. From 1853 to 1857 he was a member of the United States congress, and was the first person to advocate national purchase of Washington's home at Mount Vernon.

Shortly after this he went to New York and engaged in financial business. He became interested in western railroads, and was closely associated with the late Jay Gould in the management of many of these lines. Cable and telegraph companies also came under his control, and a number of banks and insurance companies.

"Maintaining His Innocence

A post-mortem examination made by Dr. O'Brien today disclosed the fact that three bullets had taken effect in the girl's body. The first one had entered the body, going clean through and coming out at the back. As she fell the villain had evidently fired another one into the back of her head, shattering the skull. The wound in the forehead, in the opinion of the doctors, had been made when the girl had fallen, and was the last one inflicted. The blackened powder-marked ripples around the wound shows that the muzzle of the gun had been placed to the forehead. Any one of the three wounds would have caused almost instant death.

The inquest will be held on Thursday. The funeral of the murdered girl takes place tomorrow.

BUILDING COLLAPSES.

South Farmingham, Mass., July 23.—The Amstel building, an uncompleted structure, collapsed today. Ten men were reported to be buried in the ruins. At six o'clock six bodies had been taken from the ruins and 10 injured sent to the hospital.

UNIONS ENTER POLITICAL FIELD

Council of United States Federation of Labor Issues Its Manifesto.

TO FIGHT FOR INFLUENCE

Campaign Based on Allegation That Little Attention Is Now Paid to Demands.

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor today declared its determination to enter the field of politics in the interest of the trade union movement and to urge all friends of organized labor to elect to political offices known to be favorable to labor's cause. At the headquarters of the federation the council today issued its "campaign programme" addressed to "all organized labor and its friends in the United States."

Federation's Programme

It sets out that the trades union movement has kept progress to keep pace with the rapid change in industrial affairs, and that the working people cannot hope to maintain their rights or a progressive position in the varying phases of modern society unless they organize and exert all those functions which, as workingmen and citizens, it is their privilege and their duty to exercise. It is declared that labor makes no demand on government and society for anything which is not to be equally to be accorded to all the people of this country, and that "it can and will be satisfied with nothing else."

trust companies recognized him as their head.

He was known, for the last 30 or 40 years as the silent millionaire. Very little has been published regarding his doings, and his life has been a particularly quiet one since he ceased ostensible participation in the battles of the financial giants of Wall street. He was a great advocate of hard and continuous work and practised what he preached. No recreation entered into his scheme of living, and he always pooh-poohed the idea of vacations. Only recently he made public a disquisition on this subject that attracted considerable attention. Russell Sage had never been known to devote any part of his enormous fortune to charitable organizations.

GENERAL KODAMA DEAD.

Was "Kitchener of Japan," Chief of Staff of Army of Nippon.

Tokio, July 23.—General Baron Kodama died here this morning. General Kodama was educated at Rutgers College and has been called the genius of the Japanese army. He was Field Marshal Ogawa's chief of staff during the Japanese-Russian war.

After the retirement of Field Marshal Ogawa, General Kodama was made chief of the general staff of the Japanese army.

General Kodama was the mobilizer of the Mikado's armies, directing the destiny of his people militarily. For ten years military governor of Formosa, for two years chief of the war office, it was he who had perfected the transport service and tied the ends of the army together so well that the phenomenal six months' dash of the troops through Korea and beyond the Yalu startled the world.

Kodama is the Japanese Kitchener, and he laid out the reduction of Port Arthur with the strategy of a master mind. His first plan failed, because Kodama underestimated the foe he had Trust to Nature.

A great many Americans, both men and women, are thin, pale and puny, with poor circulation, because they have ill-treated their stomachs by hasty eating or too much eating, by consuming alcoholic beverages, or by too close confinement to home, office or factory, and in consequence the stomach must be treated in a natural way before they can rectify their earlier mistakes. The muscles in many such people, in fact in every weary, thin and skin-thin person, do their work with great difficulty. As a result fatigue comes early, is extreme and lasts long. The demand for nutritive aid is ahead of the supply. To insure perfect health every tissue, bone, nerve and muscle should take from the blood certain materials and return to it certain others. It is necessary to prepare the stomach for the work of taking up from the food what is necessary to make good, rich, red blood. We must go to Nature for the remedy. There were certain roots known to the Indians of this country before the advent of the whites which later came to the knowledge of the settlers and which are now growing rapidly in professional favor for the cure of obstinate stomach and liver troubles. These are found to be safe and yet certain in their cleansing and invigorating effect upon the stomach, liver and blood. These are: Golden Seal root, Queen's Root, Black Birch bark, White Birch bark, and the like.

Winnipeg Exhibition.—A despatch received yesterday by Hon. R. G. Tallow, minister of finance and agriculture, from R. M. Palmer, provincial horticulturist, conveys the gratifying news that the provincial exhibits had arrived on Sunday, in ample time for the opening of the Winnipeg Industrial exhibition which took place yesterday. Consignments of fresh fruits were expected on Monday morning from all the fruit shipping points in British Columbia. Mr. Palmer says the prospects for a successful exhibition are excellent. The Kootenay fruit growers are making a special exhibit, supplementary to the general provincial collection of fresh and preserved fruits.

The Changed Order.—Lt.-Col. English has written to the Vancouver chief of police instructing him not to arrest any Imperial soldiers for desertion, though many stragglers from the Canadian garrison are to be arrested. The commanding officer of the local garrison wrote as follows: "My orders are that owing to the distance from an imperial military station, deserters should not be apprehended. In case of their surrendering themselves they should be discharged from custody without a protecting certificate, and consequently without prejudice to their subsequent arrest. No reward will in the future be paid for their apprehension." The above does not apply to deserters from the Canadian permanent force, for whose apprehension a reward of $20 is allowed on conviction."

The "Golden Medical Discovery" is a scientific preparation compounded of the glyceric extracts of the above mentioned vegetable ingredients and contains no alcohol or harmful habit-forming drugs.

ARRANGING SESSION OF TRADES CONGRESS

Deputation Waits on City Council to Enlist Proper Degree of Support.

GENERAL CIVIC BUSINESS TRANSACTED

North Ward Park By-Law to Be Submitted to Ratepayers on August 30th.

At the regular meeting of the city council last night it was decided that the bylaw to provide a park for North Ward should be submitted to the ratepayers on August 30. A bylaw authorizing the construction of certain concrete sidewalks was advanced several stages. The meeting was also waited on by a delegation from the Trades and Labor Council. J. D. McNiven, M. P. P., on behalf of the Trades and Labor Council, said he was present with a view to obtaining the assistance of the board towards a reception to the delegates to the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress, whose annual convention is to be held this year in Victoria. He said that in past years it had been the custom for the corporation to donate a sum to the Labor Day celebration, and this year the council desired that it be devoted to the reception of the delegates.

He pointed out the many advantages that would accrue from the visit of the delegates, and that the committee had been appointed in a public way, in which three were appointed from the Board of Aldermen, three from the Board of Trade, three from the Tourist Association and three from the Trades and Labor Council. He pointed out that every cent would be accounted for, and requested that the council take the matter into consideration and give a liberal donation.

In answer to Ald. Yates, Mr. McNiven said that the committee would be satisfied with their usual grant. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

Ernest Temple requested that the sidewalks on Victoria crescent be extended.

Referred to the city engineer and streets, sewers and bridges committee.

Alf. Taylor asked if the corporation had decided to install the Taylor patent fire alarm in the new Old Men's Home, as he would like to have the photograph of the building in his catalogue, which is now practically complete.

Referred to the Home committee.

F. Landsberg asked permission to place a totem pole in front of his new premises on Government street. He pointed out that the pole was the height of the first storey and ten inches thick.

Ald. Fullerton moved that the request be granted, as a similar request had been granted to Mr. Aaronson.

Ald. Stewart said he was

Not in Favor of the Motion

He pointed out that when Mr. Aaronson requested permission it was for three months, as he had a prospective customer and expected to dispose of it within that time. He moved that the communication be laid on the table, to give an opportunity to look into the correspondence regarding the request of Mr. Aaronson. He pointed out that the council were averse to having any poles on the streets, and they were establishing a bad precedent. The amendment was carried.

A communication from the secretary of the Pacific Coast Fire Chiefs' Association, requesting that the chief of the fire department be allowed to attend the meeting to be held in Calgary on August 27 and 28. Received and filed.

Question of Sheep Herding

His Worship said that they have sheep in all the parks in the old country.

Ald. Douglas said that in the old country they had sheep rails. He said that the hay had been cut.

His Worship said that if the grass was cut it was very poorly done, and it was disgusting to see the manner in which the grass had been attended to. He said that he was willing to give his personal bond for any damage that would be done by the sheep.

Ald. Douglas said that it was impossible to cut the grass over the rocks. He thought it was unfair to criticize the park committee.

James L. Raynor, water commissioner recommended that the request for the extension of the water main by Mr. McGill on Pandora street, be made.

J. L. Raynor, Water Commissioner, stated that it was the intention to pave Wharf street, it would be necessary to lay an 8-inch water main.

Laid on the table.

A petition was received from the tenants of the premises on Trounce avenue, requesting that some action be taken to prevent the C. P. R. telegraph boys from using Trounce avenue as a playground.

Ald. Stewart pointed out that the property was private property, and the city could not say whether the boys would be allowed to play there or not.

Ald. Yates said that the city had a right to prevent a nuisance on private property. He moved that the C. P. R. be requested to attend to the boys and keep them in order.

Ald. Davey moved that the communication be referred to the police commissioners.

Ald. Hall seconded the amendment and he also called attention to the fact that there was considerable bad language.

A motion by Ald. Stewart dealing with a re-assessment under bylaw No. 477 was carried.

His Worship inquired if the liquor license bylaw was ready, or if it would be ready next Monday.

Ald. Davey said "I am afraid not."

His Worship—in that case I think it would be well if you reported the bylaw to the council.

The North Ward park was then taken up.

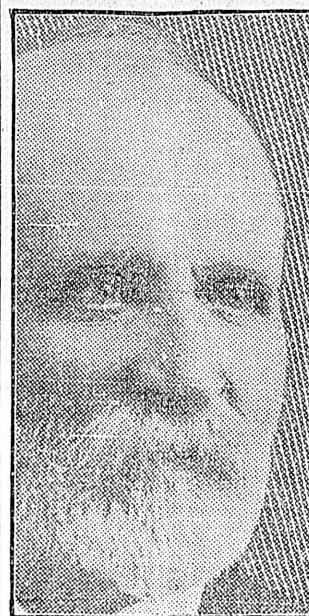

Ald. Hall suggested that the bylaw should not be put before the people till the other bylaws were ready.

His Worship was of the opinion that it should not be put before the people till the water question was discussed.

Ald. Fullerton—Till what is discussed. I don't see how you can do that. The water has nothing to do with the matter. It was decided to submit the bylaw to the ratepayers on August 30th. The bylaws referring to the sale of the Cameron property and concrete sidewalks were read and discussed in committee and passed.

The finance committee recommended

NASAL CATARH AFFECTS HEARING.

MR. R. J. ARLESS.

FINDS RELIEF IN PERU-NA.

Mr. R. J. Arless, 401 City Hall Ave., Montreal, Quebec, is an old gentleman of wide acquaintance, having served thirty-eight years in the General Post-office of Montreal, a record which speaks for itself. Concerning his use of Peru, Mr. Arless says:

"I have been afflicted with nasal catarrh to such a degree that it affected my hearing."

"This was contracted some twenty years ago by being exposed to draughts and sudden changes of temperature."

"I have been under the treatment of specialists and have used many drugs recommended as specifics for catarrh in the head and throat—all to no purpose."

"About three years ago I was induced by a confessor in office to try Peru."

"After some hesitation, as I had doubts as to results after so many failures, I gave Peru a trial, and am happy to state that after using eight or ten bottles of Peru I am much improved in hearing, and in breathing through the nostrils."

that the sum of $100 be granted to complete surveys of Highland district. The report was adopted.

The same committee presented accounts amounting to $6666, including a grant of $50 towards defraying the expenses of the J. B. A. A. four-oared crew to Nelson.

The report was adopted and the account ordered paid.

The park committee reported that they had interviewed the butchers of the city regarding a flock of sheep to graze on the park, and none of them would agree to the proposal.

Ald. Douglas said it was impossible to get sheep at this time of the year, but the matter could be laid over for the council of next year.

Ald. Goodacre said if sheep were placed in the park at present they would do no good, as they would not eat the grass.

His Worship said he would like to see the report referred back to the committee in order that it might not be turned down.

Ald. Yates wanted to know how much money the city had to buy sheep. He also pointed out that if sheep were placed in the park it would be necessary to fence in the flower beds.

Ald. Stewart said that instead of having herds it would be better to have them cutting the grass and keeping it in order.

FIRST SESSION OF ROYAL COMMISSION

Enquiry Into the Matter of Sale of the Laurel Point Lots.

HIGGINS REFUSES TO ANSWER QUESTIONS

Editor of Vancouver World De- clines to Divulge Sources of His Information.

The first session of the royal commission appointed to enquire into the facts concerning the sale of the Laurel Point property, and the alleged misuse of confidence on the part of some person in the lands and works department, took place yesterday forenoon in the maple room in the parliament buildings. Fred Peters, K. C., the commissioner appointed to enquire into the matter, presided; W. J. Taylor, K. C., appeared on behalf of the government, and P. Higgins represented the editor of the Vancouver World; H. D. Helmcken, K. C., appeared for C. A. Harrison and Mrs. Logie; Mr. B. P. Wintemute of Vancouver represented the Vancouver World.

Mrs. Logie was appointed official stenographer, and after the commissioner had read the appointment of the commission, Mr. Higgins asked what form the enquiry was to take.

Mr. Taylor put in as exhibits the tender from F. R. Brown, acting for

W. J. Pendray, for lot 570 B, dated September 21, 1905, for $2000; also the tender of Mrs. Logie for $200, dated October 7; also the receipt for $10 crown grant fees.

Copies of the provincial Gazette and the Colonist containing the advertisement calling for tenders were also submitted.

Mr. Higgins desired that the original tenders should be submitted and not copies, stating that it was very important that they should be submitted, as the result of the investigation might hinge on those documents.

The commissioner could not see why the original tender should be submitted.

Mr. Taylor suggested that if so much importance was attached to them, the documents they could have been produced for inspection and photographed, and counsel could study them at their leisure.

The commissioner requested that a copy of the Colonist with the advertisement calling the commission and a copy of the Vancouver World containing the article in reference to the transaction should be submitted.

Considerable discussion took place over the scope of the enquiry, Mr.

Tender Was Locked Up

The tender was taken from his drawer about 1:20 o'clock October 7, and no one knew what the amount was unless they had unlocked his drawer with a pass-key; otherwise it was impossible for anyone to know the amount. The tender was in his drawer and he had placed it there. He could not remember if he had sealed the envelope before placing it in the drawer.

The tender of Mrs. Logie was received on October 7 and it was brought to him by Mr. Gore. The tenders were opened when Mr. Gore was present. He had not seen Mr. Brown or Mr. Pendray on October 7, but had received a telephone message from Mr. Brown asking if their tender had been accepted, and he told them it had not. Mr. Brown wished to know who it was that was higher, and how much the tender was. He read the name to Mr. Brown, and he asked, "Is it a woman?" and Mr. Green replied that it was.

Mr. Brown then said, "I thought so," because Mrs. James Anderson had been to his office, and from her remarks he was led to believe that she had tendered.

Mr. Brown had objected to the tender being accepted, remarking: "You are not going to turn us down for that small amount."

Mr. Brown and Mr. Pendray did not suggest that there was anything wrong with the tender.

The commissioner then told Mr. Higgins that he should confine himself more closely to facts. He pointed out that Mr. Green had said that Mr. Pendray and Mr. Brown had not suggested anything wrong.

Continuing, the witness said the delegation from the board of trade waited on him within a few days after the tenders were opened.

Asked by Mr. Higgins if they decided to accept Mrs. Logie's tender, Mr. Green said it was not their intention as it was not the practice, the executive, and he did not know of any tender being accepted without first consulting the executive. He said that since he had been in charge of the department it was the first occasion on which the highest tender had not been accepted.

The commissioner again drew the attention of Mr. Higgins to the fact that neither of the tenders had been accepted.

Mr. Higgins asked Mr. Green if he knew Mrs. Anderson, and he replied that he did.

The commissioner said that as yet Mrs. Anderson had nothing to do with the tenders, and unless they could show that Mrs. Anderson had been connected with the tenders it had nothing to do with the enquiry.

In reply to the commissioner, Mr. Green stated that he had treated Mr. Brown's offer, received before tenders were called for, as a tender, and it was impossible for anyone to give out information unless his drawer had been opened. He was the only one in the lands and works department that knew anything about the tender, and any information given out could only have been given by Mr. Brown, Mr. Pendray or himself.

James S. Murray was then called on, and Mr. Higgins objected.

The commissioner wanted to know what his objections were, and Mr. Higgins said that he desired to have the privilege of cross-examining him. He had not been allowed to cross-examine Mr. Green, as he had desired.

In reply to Mr. Taylor, witness said he was a real estate agent and was pretty well acquainted with the values of the property near Sehl's Point, as he had acted as the representative of the Sehl estate for the sale of the property near Sehl's Point. He said that he had taken a sketch of Laurel Point and was familiar with the values according to the estimate asked for by Mr. Sehl. He did not know the exact value of the property. He had spoken to several people about putting in a tender, as he thought Mr. Pendray would get the property for about $2000. In speaking to these gentlemen he had done so with the intention of interesting them in the transaction. He had spoken to several others including Mr. Laird and Dr. Gibbs, and about two days before the tenders were opened he met Mr. Anderson and they talked the matter over; and he showed Mr. Anderson the sketch and then they stepped it off. Mr. Anderson then said that if he had time to go to Seattle he would get the money; and witness told Mr. Anderson that Mr. Pendray might get the property for about $2000. He saw Mr. Anderson on Friday and Saturday morning, and he had not found anyone, but on Saturday afternoon Mr. Anderson told him that Mr. Harrison of the Driard Hotel had put in a tender.

Examined by Mr. Higgins, he said he was acting for Mr. Sehl and not Mr. Pendray. He knew that Mr. Brown was acting for Mr. Pendray, and was put out because Mr. Pendray completed the transaction for the Sehl property through Mr. Brown. He did not know that Mr. Pendray was tendering for the Laurel Point property, but he took it for granted that Mr. Pendray would naturally want it. He said that it was not his intention to get the property in order to re-sell it to Mr. Pendray, but he might sell it to anyone. He said he had an idea that the government would play it into the hands of Mr. Pendray. He saw Mr. Gore about the matter and he told him nothing about a ten-foot roadway, and he thought that the government was not acting in a fair way by not mentioning the roadway, but he had learned afterwards that Mr. Gore had told others about the roadway.

He did not intend to get the property in order to "hold Mr. Pendray up," and had never told anyone that he intended to do this. He was willing to sell to anyone, but did not intend to sell at a lower figure than what they had paid for it.

Mr. Higgins asked if he contemplated that Mr. Pendray would buy the property.

He replied that he thought he would at an advance on what he had paid for it. He talked the matter over with Mr. Laird, but they did not think that Mr. Pendray was the only one who might want to buy the property, and had arrived at the conclusion that he would tender about $2000, on the basis of his offer for the Sehl property. He heard that Mr. Pendray was to bid $2050, but could not say positively who had told him.

He figured that Mr. Pendray would cover $2000 by an advance of $50, and up to the time he had seen Mr. Anderson he thought that Mr. Pendray would bid $2050. He saw Mr. Anderson about 11 o'clock on Thursday before the tenders were received, and Mr. Anderson asked him what he thought. Mr. Pendray's tender would be $2050, and he thought that if they bid $2100 it would be accepted. He was not anxious about what Mr. Pendray had bid, and he did not know if Mr. Anderson was anxious or not. He remembered having a conversation with Mr. Drury and Mr. McNeven and had told them that he had figured the price out with Mr. Anderson.

Asked if he knew Mrs. Anderson, Mr. Murray replied that he did; but when asked how long, the commissioner said it was not pertinent to the enquiry.

In answer to Mr. Taylor, Mr. Murray said that he talked with Mr. Anderson about the sum of $2100, taking into consideration the valuation of the adjoining property.

The commissioner—Did you in any way, directly or indirectly, obtain any information from the lands and works department?

Mr. Murray—I did not.

Continuing, witness said, in reply to the commissioner, that Mr. Anderson told him about 3:25 o'clock that Mr. Harrison had put in a tender on Saturday night.

C. A. Harrison of the Driard Hotel, in answer to Mr. Taylor, said that on the Saturday on which the tenders were to be closed he was walking across Broad street, about 11 o'clock, to Mr. Kingham's office to buy coal, he met Mr. Anderson near the tailor shop. He passed the time of day with him and asked him where he could make a dollar. Mr. Anderson said, "I will show you." Witness replied, "Wait till I order my coal, and I will see you about the good thing."

He discussed the matter with Mr. Anderson and he explained where the property was and the dimensions. He told Mr. Anderson that he did not know the property, but from the dimensions and the location he came to the conclusion that it would do for a hotel or a wharf.

Mr. Anderson told him that the tender must be in before 12 o'clock. He replied that he did not have the money, but said he knew where he could get it. He then met the stenographer from the hotel and she accepted his advice and had her check marked at the Bank of Commerce for $2100 and arrived at the department a few minutes before noon. He met a clerk in the office and got the required information and got $10 from Mr. D. Rogers to pay the crown grant fee. The tender was made out and placed in the box at three minutes to 12, and he drew the attention of the clerk to the time.

In reply to Mr. Higgins he said that he wrote the tender for Mrs. Logie and she signed it. He recognized the tender on exhibit. He said Mr. Anderson was not present when he spoke with Mrs. Logie that he knew nothing about the property till 11 o'clock on Saturday and was satisfied with the information from Mr. Anderson, and had no other information from anyone.

In reply to Mr. Taylor witness said there was nothing whereby Mr. Anderson would share anything that Mr. Harrison made on the transaction.

P. R. Brown Examined

P. R. Brown was then called and said he was a real estate agent and acted for Mr. Pendray in regard to the Sehl and Laurel Point. He put a tender in for Mr. Pendray and identified that on exhibit. He said that it was made out on September 21st, and took it to the chief commissioner of lands and works, the tender being open. The next he heard of the tender was on Saturday about 10 o'clock. Mrs. Anderson came to the office and asked to see him. They went in the private office and she asked if he was Mr. Pendray's agent and he replied that he was. She said: "You are tendering for Laurel Point?" He said he was and she remarked: "Why don't you put in a decent price?"

He asked what she knew about the price and she replied that she knew it was $2000 and that she would bid higher than that. He went over to the department and saw Mr. Gore, and asked for information and Mr. Gore said he had received another tender. He went to see Mr. Pendray and telephoned the chief commissioner.

In answer to Mr. Taylor, witness said he arrived at the tender for Mr. Pendray on the valuation of the Sehl property. He was of the opinion that Mr. Murray might figure the same. He said that Mrs. Anderson came into the office apparently for the express purpose of referring to the deal and she opened up the conversation. He did not remember Mrs. Anderson saying that "you ask a good price when you are selling, but you do not go very high when buying government land."

Mr. Taylor asked if he did not have any transaction with Mrs. Anderson, and the commissioner said that it was not permissible.

Mr. Taylor said he was examining with the intention of refreshing the mind of the witness, regarding some conversation with Mrs. Anderson in relation to a negotiation which led up to the visit.

The question was allowed and witness replied that he thought the dealings for property by Mrs. Anderson for Mrs. Harris were afterwards but he could not be sure.

Asked by Mr. Higgins if there was any understanding with the government as to the price the property would be sold for, Mr. Brown said that there was an upset price of $2000.

The Commissioner—You were present and heard Mr. Green's evidence regarding your conversation before the tenders were called for?

Mr. Brown—Yes.

The Commissioner—Do you give that as a correct account of the conversation?

Mr. Brown—Yes.

Witness also stated that he put in a tender before they were called for and did not know anything about them till they were opened.

The Commissioner—Were you surprised when Mrs. Anderson came into your office?

Mr. Brown—I was not surprised when she came into the office, but I was surprised when she stated the figure that I had sent in.

The Commissioner—Did she not make the remark with the intention of finding out from you?

Mr. Brown—She did not make the remark in that manner, but rather as if she already knew what it was.

The Commissioner—Did you not tell Mrs. Anderson what the tender was?

Mr. Brown—No.

The Commissioner—Did you not by your manner give her to understand that your price was $2000?

Mr. Brown—I did not tell her the price but she might have been able to tell by my looks that she had guessed correctly.

The Commissioner—If Mrs. Anderson had any idea what the figure was when she came in, it would have been strengthened when she went out, would it not?

Mr. Brown—it might have been.

The Commissioner—Well, who told her?

Mr. Brown—I am still guessing.

In answer to Mr. Taylor witness said he did not know where Mrs. Anderson got the information, and was still guessing; but he was not responsible for the remarks that had been circulated. The commission then adjourned for lunch.

Afternoon Session

On resuming in the afternoon Mr. Taylor consented to leave of absence for Mr. Brown, the last witness called during the morning's sitting, which was granted by Commissioner Peters; and Mr. W. J. Pendray was the next witness. Mr. Pendray put in his tender on the 21st of September for $2000, and on being questioned by Commissioner Peters affirmed that he had to take his chance with the rest of the public, receiving no inside information from the Hon. R. F. Green nor from any other source; neither had he discussed the matter of the tenders with anyone but his son, Mr. Green's statement of the facts was correct.

The next witness was D. W. Higgins, editor of the Vancouver World.

Com. Peters said he understood Mr. Higgins had published an article in the World of 16th of May, stating that information had been given out by some official in the office of lands and works regarding the tenders for the lots in question, so as to give unfair advantage.

The Commissioner wished to know from what source The World received this information.

Mr. Higgins—Information received from proper quarters.

The Commissioner—And what were those "proper quarters"?

Mr. Higgins—I shall be betraying confidences if I name the party from whom I received the information.

The Commissioner—You must give this information.

Mr. Higgins—I will not tell you unless I have to by law. I will not betray the confidences of a client. The editor that gives away the source from which he gets information, gets very little more.

The Commissioner then read to Mr. Higgins, section 12 of the Public Enquiry Act, in which it is stated that "No person shall be excused from answering any question put to him by such commissioners on the ground of any

"Doing Things"

The way to do a thing these days is to do it—quick and right.

We've been working along serious lines of late trying to get you to see some of the crying needs of the day, and how they can be met, and we've put into the struggle every pound of nerve and force we have. And now that midsummer is here, when everybody "lets down" and wants lighter reading, we have put the same nerve and force into a special fiction number.

For August, we have undertaken to get together the liveliest and best collection of stories ever seen in a magazine—not just as good, or only a little better, but way ahead the best.

We have interested in our plan such writers as Jack London, Lloyd Osbourne, O. Henry, Arthur McFarlane, William Bulfin, Roy Norton, and such artists as Philip Goodwin, George Gibbs, Dan Smith, Martin Justice, Will Crawford and Karl Anderson. They have caught the spirit most superbly, and have given us nine mighty good stories, any one of six (five anyway) good enough to be the "star" story of any fiction number ever published.

Just get this August fiction number of Everybody's Magazine and see what we mean by "doing things."

No; we haven't forgotten our serious work—we never lose sight of that. We are living for that. There's "Soldiers of the Common Good," Russell's fact-story on Japan, the Mystery Nation—the new force let loose upon the rest of the world, the great dominating trust-fighting and trust-absorbing government, so full of suggestions to us Americans. We hope you are reading Russell's series. Then there's Teague showing the inner workings of the Bucket Shop game with a terrible arraignment of the foul sneak-thieves who steal a hundred million dollars a year from those whom they profess to advise. Mr. Lawson varies his usual instalment with a humorous but deep-underneath earnest talk on "Muck and Muck Rakers."

Everybody's Magazine for August—the great fiction magazine of the year. Always the great fact-story magazine. Get it.

VANCOUVER AND VICTORIA WATER SUPPLY.

Victoria is not the only city on the coast in which there is a shortage of water. On Saturday morning the water in the city reservoir in Stanley Park stood at four feet below normal level. This, says the Vancouver Province, was the startling intelligence which created a commotion around the city hall in that city shortly after the arrival of Mayor Buscombe. We are informed that at a recent fire near the Hotel Vancouver the hose could not throw a stream half way up the building. Now, Vancouver is supposed to have a very first-class service, and the intelligence comes as a shock to those who have been used to regard the system in the Terminal City as the finest in British Columbia. For purity of supply it doubtless is the best, but we have no doubt that the enlargement of the supply itself will become a serious question in Vancouver, because the interests of the citizens are too large and too important to take any risks. One cause of the position of affairs there is that the city has been growing very rapidly, and the increase of consumption has not been duly taken note of. It is alleged, and probably there is a good deal of truth in the statements made, that owing to the heated spell there has been extraordinary demand, and that the citizens have been very reckless in the use of water and have been wilfully wasting it by allowing their sprinklers to run all night, and in other ways. It has come to such a pass that the Mayor states that in all likelihood the sprinkling of lawns during the remainder of the heated term will be prohibited. The experience of Vancouver demonstrates the necessity of having a water supply that can be depended upon at all times. If Victoria has not sufficient supply to meet its present requirements, with a population of from 25,000 to 30,000, what will its position be when that population has doubled or trebled? It was certainly a surprise to the people of Vancouver to find that its really fine water works system had failed them just at a critical time like the present. The moral is: Make plenty of provision for water when you are at it.

Mr. W. T. R. Preston is to be made commercial agent for Canada in Great Britain and on the continent of Europe and Mr. Bastedo, late Inspector of Fisheries for the province of Ontario, is to succeed him as immigration agent. The Dominion government service has proved to be a blissful haven for the Ontario Liberal supporters of the Ross variety.

THE LEBALING OF CANADIAN GOODS.

It has been a matter of complaint for years that Canadian goods, especially when they are shipped through American ports, lose their identity in British and foreign markets, and are regarded generally as American goods. This condition of things is very unsatisfactory, for several good reasons: It prevents Canada from taking that place in these markets to which she is entitled, and which would greatly to her benefit to have; it also prevents extension of Canadian trade upon its own merits. Mr. P. B. Ball, commercial agent at Birmingham, England, in his report to the Dominion authorities, refers in no uncertain terms to this matter, and urges the desirability of having all the packages containing Canadian goods branded, marked or labeled in such a way that no confusion or misunderstanding could arise in regard to them. Mr. Ball remarks:

"I have always contended that Canadians in exporting their products do not differentiate sufficiently. To the wholesaler or jobber it is well known that our products are Canadian, but the user, unless his particular attention is drawn to the fact, places all on one level and calls them American. We know that no country tins such salmon as Canada, but it is always sold as American. The chairman of the Stratford-on-Avon Board of Guardians asked a question in committee yesterday as to whether the corned beef used was from America, and the reply was given that it might be Canadian. A tin was brought for inspection and it was found to be from Chicago. The chairman instructed the contractor to supply Australian goods in future.

"Why could not our tanners of salmon and lobster, etc., have stamped on each tin 'Canadian'? The same thing may be said of apples. The wholesaler knows the difference between the Canadian and the American apples, but when these apples come to a retailer, as far as the head is removed, it takes away all distinction, and they may be Canadian, American or anything else. Why not brand on the side staves 'Canadian'? Cheese might be dealt with in the same way. 'Canadian' could be stamped on every quarter. It seems to me that Canadian packers and shippers should follow the high ideal of the bacon and cheese shippers to this country. Occasionally there are complaints; but, take it all around, these two articles particularly have the very highest standing in this country."

THE INTERCOLONIAL SURPLUS.

The Liberal papers of the Maritime Provinces are highly elated over the fact that Hon. Mr. Emmerson has been able to announce that the Intercolonial Railway has earned a surplus of $100,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1906. There is, however, from this $50,000 deficit arising out of the operations of the Prince Edward Island government railway, which leaves the net surplus $50,000. Of course, Mr. Emmerson is entitled to due credit for having made good his promise of some months ago, and it is satisfactory to know that the country is not to be saddled with further deficits on account of that railway. The things that strikes one, however, in considering the merits and demerits of the Liberal administration of the Intercolonial is that if the government is to receive credit for the surplus of $50,000, it is fairly entitled to accept the responsibility of the series of deficits extending over a period of ten years. And when we come to think of it, the Intercolonial is really today in a much worse position, in the way of earning money, than it otherwise might have been, had a statesmanlike policy been pursued. Some time ago the Canada Atlantic Railway was purchased by the Grand Trunk Railway, which gives the latter a direct line of communication between Barrie, on the Great Lakes, and Montreal. That sale could not have been effected without the consent of the government. Mr. Blair, former minister of railways, and the Faber-Conservative opposition in the House of Commons advocated that that Canada Atlantic should have been purchased by the Dominion of Canada and incorporated with the Intercolonial, which would then have had direct access to the traffic of the West, and would have paid enormously. As it is, the Intercolonial is boxed up at Montreal, and must depend largely upon local traffic for its receipts. The C. P. R. has its own line to St. John, New Brunswick, and the Grand Trunk Railway has its own outlet in Portland, Maine. The Grand Trunk Pacific will be built to Moncton, with a branch line to St. John. So that the Intercolonial is left without important feeders, except from St. John to Halifax. Had the Intercolonial Railway been utilized in connection with the new transcontinental line, it can be easily seen to what enormous extent the country would have saved money, and now materially the traffic prospects of the Intercolonial would have been enhanced. Any credit due to the Minister of Railways, therefore, in connection with the result of the past year, is much more than compensated for by the lack of statesmanship and foresight exhibited by the government in dealing with the Intercolonial generally.

BROTHIER AND THE GOVERNMENT.

The Brothier case is not losing any of its interest for the people of Vancouver, and public feeling on the question does not become less marked as time goes on. Mr. Macpherson, the city member in the Commons, has found it necessary to feign an indignation as deep as that which actuates the most sensitive of his constituents. He, however, does not see that the incident of Brothier's pardon is one that reflects upon the administration as a whole, and not solely upon the late minister of justice, who he says, was in the habit of giving the Conservatives almost anything they asked. He is a Conservative firm of lawyers. Vancouver for asking for the pardon.

biness of a lawyer to work in the interest of his client, and if he succeeds it is that much to his credit professionally. It is the common practice for people to employ lawyers to present their claims to the government and to represent their interests in various ways. It is the duty of the government to weigh carefully what is submitted for its consideration, and to judge according to the merits. No one would think of absolving the government or a minister of the crown from any responsibility for deciding wrongly simply because a lawyer had presented the case. Neither is the government to be absolved because Hon. Mr. Fitzpatrick is no longer a member of it. A government is collectively responsible for the acts of its individual members, and because all matters of importance are decided in council and become executive acts. That is what is really meant by responsible government. Every member of the government is individually and collectively responsible to parliament and through parliament to the people. Mr. Macpherson has, therefore, but a limited idea of the duties of governments or otherwise a very poor opinion of the intelligence of his constituents if he imagines that they will be satisfied with his defence of the Laurier administration on account of the Brothier outrage.

Many of the old time friends of W. B. Townsend will be shocked to learn of his death occasioned by the wreck of the Great Northern train at Beaver canyon a few miles north of the international boundary. The deceased was many years ago a resident of Victoria. Subsequently he moved to New Westminster, where he became a very prominent citizen and acquired considerable property. Like many others he over-specified and lost the greater part, if not all of his property. When the mining boom in the interior started he moved to Rossland to begin life anew and, if possible, repair his fortunes. Since that time he had been a resident of Rossland, and shared the varying fortunes of that city. He was a man who was genuinely well-liked, and possessed many sterling qualities. His death removes from the scene of action another of the British Columbia band of pioneers, whose ranks have been greatly thinned during recent years.

The Late Field Marshal Oyama.

"Thousands of corpses covering the whole mountain and river; When the fierce engagement's over, The children of the village Come out to sell us the flowers, Spring passes and autumn arrives, Yet the merit remains unfulfilled— And do not recollect my home yet."

This is a translation of a poem written to General Nogi by the late Field Marshal Baron Gentaro Kodama. For two years I have been campaigning.

When he received the publicly expressed thanks of the Mikado for signal service in putting down a rebellion. He was a

Samurai, and fought as a Samurai. In one battle of his youth, during the Satsuma rebellion, he was wounded in both arms, yet fought all day and joined in the pursuit of the rebel army at night.

His father died when he was a child, but five years of age. He was left in the care of a guardian, his brother-in-law, who was murdered when he was twelve years of age. From that time his life was a struggle against poverty, for with his mother and sisters the family was thrown upon its own resources. The family was a noble one, but like many other noble families was impoverished with the changing conditions of the country. He had a hard struggle to secure enough money to pay for his education to fit him for the army. Remembering these struggles when he became rich he endowed a college for the special benefit of lads placed in the position in which he had been.

One of his exploits as a boy of 25 years of age is included in Japanese history.

It was during the rebellion of 1877 when the whole country was torn with strife. It was a deed which touched the whole nation to the quick—you cannot speak to a Japanese on Baron Kodama without being told the story. He was in command of one of the southern castles besieged by the insurgents. The outer wall was on fire and the flames were travelling quickly to the magazine where the powder of the garrison was stored. Unless the powder was removed disaster would result for the garrison. He called upon some of his troops to remove the powder, but they hesitated. An explosion seemed inevitable. In cases that have occurred in this district, where the lessees were driving off settlers, the two officials rush up, at government expense, as volunteers witnesses for the lessees.

I refer you to page 964 of Hansard of July 12, 1905, where the minister of the interior promises an inquiry. What is the nature of the inquiry?

You will see that there is no affidavit by the inspector, asking to specify lands mentioned; that is, that the official who was either incapable or dishonest was to be the judge.

I hold that the land agent and homestead inspector, when application is made for a homestead, should be as eager as any real estate agent to place that settler on the land. He gets his commission; they get their salary for the purpose.

SOME DELEGATES STAY OVER

What the Visitors Thought of Victoria and How the City Made Good.

The final day of the "ad" men's visit to the city—Sunday—was spent in sight-seeing. In the morning the delegates were entertained by the Victoria Development and Tourist association to a tally-ho drive being accompanied by several members of the reception committee who pointed out all the places of interest. At 2:30 a launch trip was provided up the placid waters of the Gorge to the park where two hours were pleasantly passed enjoying the beauties of the arm, listening to the band concert boating and bathing. The majority of the visitors left on the steamer Princess Victoria and were accorded a hearty send-off at the wharf. Alex. Green of Spokane, and Louis Le Sage of Los Angeles left yesterday morning to visit Seattle while R. A. Read of Los Angeles and K. L. Bernard, of Portland, elected to stay another day in town. Mr. Bernard who is a well known coast manager and promoter of high class amusement enterprises leaves this morning for Vancouver but expects to return to Victoria early in August with a view to going into some line of amusement enterprise here. Yesterday he had a long conference with Manager Goward of the tramway company and his mission to the Terminal city is to see what opportunities exist there for putting in amusements at one of the parks.

Some Impressions

At the request of the Colonist, several of the members of the Pacific Coast Advertising Men's association contribute today their impressions of the visit to Victoria. H. P. Stabler, president of the association, writes:

"All the delegates were highly delighted with the entertainment given them and with the success of the convention. Victoria is, in my opinion, the most charming spot on the coast, with its beautiful homes, surrounded by well kept grounds and the hospitality of its citizens was a feature always to be remembered.

"The afternoon spent on the water, going up the Gorge was particularly commented on by my associates as being an experience of a lifetime. No city on the American continent has superior scenic attractions and the prediction was made that the intelligent effort being put forth to attract tourists, would result in making Victoria one of the most popular summer resorts in the world. The comprehensive reports given by the press of the convention was cordially appreciated, and the advertising men will always remember Victoria with the greatest pleasure, and with the hope that at no distant date we may again foregather in your hospitable city."

By Vice-President F. H. Mantor

Victoria is the beautiful! Victoria the city which "made good." I thought I knew something of Victoria and her citizens from previous visits, but during the recent convention of the Pacific Coast Advertising Men's association, I have learned how ignorant I was before. How can one put into mere words one's appreciation of the wonderful handiwork of the Creator in fashioning Victoria's natural surroundings? One stands in reverence while gazing across the glittering blue pathway of water, carrying the world's commerce, to the majestic Olympic mountains, behind which the sun sets to rest in a sea of changing colors, beyond the grasp of the artist, be he ever so gifted. And in the inland waters, the wooded islands, the magnificent homes! Providence has been lavish with Victoria, and her citizens have not been slow to make the most of the possibilities.

And Victoria's citizens! They indeed are such as could only develop in the magnificent, graceful surroundings of the city they love. Genial, hospitable, tolerant, Victorians are indeed devoted practitioners of the gospel of universal fellowship. The hearty handshakes, the kind words of greeting—these and other marks of friendship will linger in our minds while memory remains, and prove a source of pleasurable contemplation in our progress down the stream of time.

To Victoria and Victorians, I extend my heartfelt thanks in behalf of the Washington delegation as well as personally, may they prosper in large measure, and as an able Victoria speaker said at Saturday night's dinner, may the thoughts strike home in every breast that Briton and American are of one brotherhood, albeit acknowledging allegiance to different flags.

By Vice-President R. M. Ball

Victoria is a revelation to me in every particular. There is, no reason in the world why it should not receive annually as many tourists as the leading cities of California. For natural scenery it is without a peer on the American continent. All you have to do is to let the world know of your beautiful city, and its natural attractions and thousands will come. Give Cuthbert more and more hearty support. He will do the rest. I am amazed at what he is doing for your city and section with a few thousand dollars annually. Every visitor will be a walking advertisement for your city, its charming surroundings and hospitable citizens, just as every "ad" man who has attended the convention.

By C. C. Chapman, Portland

What I think of Victoria can be inferred from a letter I wrote Mrs. Chapman today, and from which I quote: "You must get well quickly so as to come to Victoria for a fine long visit. You will fall completely in love with the place, and I feel sure your health will improve rapidly here. It is the homeliest place. There's an atmosphere of culture far ahead of what is found in our American cities, and the people I met are so bright and interesting and so hospitable that you will like them even better than the city itself. The homes seem like a realization of beautiful dreams."

"And the surroundings! Distant snow-capped rugged mountains, the graceful sweeps of timbered hills, the countless inlets dotting the straits and bays, the huge rocks jutting out into the narrow landlocked arms of the sea, the flowers, the soft balmy atmosphere—all these unite to inspire a love of the beautiful and the good as exemplified by the prospect. It is my prayer and hope that you will be able to come here soon to

DAILY FASHION HINTS

How grateful is Milady after a day's shopping, business or social duties to divest herself of her dust laden skirts and formal waist whose high collar, perhaps, has caused her some discomfort. With a sigh of relief she slips into the cosy folds of an immaculate dressing sack and then is half rested. These most useful and becoming garments are so much in demand that new designs are always hailed with delight. Here is one whose cut is a decided departure from the usual modes. The fronts are in cut-away effect and disclose a full front attached to an open neck yoke which is always becoming. A charming mode of developing this unique negligee would be to use a judiciously figured lavender lawn with frillings of gauze ribbon. As a belt to confine the fullness in back, black velvet ribbon with tiny rosettes at the sides would add a pleasing note of contrast. Or made of sheer white lawn this model would be dainty and simple. Innumerable materials, however, suggest themselves—ponge, China silk, crepe de chine, and a host of others—the chief requisite being softness and daintiness. For the medium size, 3½ yards of 36-inch material are required.

enjoy what I know will be the most delightful vacation of your life."

By Louis G. LeSage

What are my impressions of Victoria? Beyond description. Standing on this charming soil of your beautiful land—this magic island, I marvel that it is so little understood to the world beyond that such a beautiful resort exists on these northwest shores. We who have come from that "Queen" of the great southwest, "Los Angeles" with its many attractions of entirely different charms, will return home with fond memories of your trees, fern-clad gorges, limpid water ways and two things in particular will I miss at home; "your long twilight evenings and the green that sweeps to tide water, things that are denied to us in southern California." How can we express to you the deep appreciation of the hospitality we have received from your people. We can only say—come and see us that we may reciprocate.

By Frank L. Merrick

You ask me to give my impressions of Victoria. Well, nothing would please me better, but as I have only an hour in which to catch the boat it is impossible for me to do the subject justice. I won't say that I am surprised at your city, because I was prepared to see something out of the ordinary—Mr. Cuthbert is responsible for that—and I want to say in this connection that the city of Victoria is to be congratulated by having such an energetic worker as Mr. Cuthbert at the head of its promotion bureau. He is doing excellent work, and should receive the hearty support of the citizens of Victoria. We persons from the United States are able to judge of the results that he is accomplishing, for the interest excited by his work there should be a great desire on the part of the people to visit Victoria.

By A. Greene of Spokane

Victoria is certainly one of the most beautiful cities in America and its citizens princely entertainers. Our whole visit has been an unbroken series of delightful surprises. I shall long cherish pleasant recollections of this meeting of the Pacific Coast Ad Men's association and leave Victoria with a firm resolve to come again.

By R. A. Read

Should I attempt to express all of my impressions of Victoria, I fear it would tax the capacity of the composing rooms, and call for enlarged issues of the local newspapers.

Your lakes and your gorges surpass anything which has been my pleasure heretofore to enjoy; while the wonderful twilights are enough to cause even a confirmed old bachelor to become a total subject of "King Cupid"—were opportunity offered.

I had heard that Victoria was a provincial town—and rather slow; but I want to go on record with the assertion that the pace for the past few days has been quite rapid enough for your truly—and I take off my hat to the hospitality of your charming city.

The fact that I am still here is proof that my impressions of Victoria have been most pleasing—and echoes the sentiment so enthusiastically declared by the ad men as a body, that "They wanted to live in Victoria."

My stay in your midst has been one continual round of pleasure—and only regret is that circumstances render it imperative that I take today's boat for Seattle—and thence to my home in sunny southern California; and I want to say to you Victorians that when any of you come to Los Angeles that you'll find the city's gates ajar, with a hearty welcome awaiting you by the local members of the Pacific Coast Advertising Men's association.

By C. V. White, Seattle

With the proper environment great things come as easily as the effort. Certainly Victorians have the scenery, the climate and all the natural conditions to produce the satisfied air of the possessor of the coveted "community wealth" such as makes a great tourist resort. The air of hospitality comes naturally to Victorians and with the remarkably advantages in climate, etc., the city is unquestionably entitled to the increasing popularity. Some have said that Victoria is a slow town. These people forget that speed is not essential to progress—large bodies move slowly and statistics show that the tourist travel is increasing at a larger proportionate rate than at any point on the coast.

From an advertising man's standpoint the telling to the world of the actual truth about Victoria is enough.

The people with whom I have come in contact have displayed the kindest feeling toward other coast communities and have safely depended on the community's advantages to speak for them.

I like Victoria and the people of Victoria and it is an exceptional pleasure to come to the city.

Each visit renewes my enthusiasm and sends me back to Seattle proud of the sister city and her people across the line.

The steamer Mariechen has been sold. For $5,000, which was not sufficient to pay the dock dues of the vessel, she was sold by Capt. Schonbach, representing M. Jebsen, of Hamburg, to Mr. Schubach, of Schubach and Hamilton, the well known Seattle shipping men, owners of the steamer Ohio and other vessels.

The purchasers became responsible for the dock dues from Sunday morning. Mr. Schubach is expected to arrive by the steamer Princess Victoria this morning to examine the steamer and ascertain what will be done with regard to repairs.

The present intention of the new owners is to make only sufficient repairs here to float the steamer from the dock and then take her to Seattle and call for tenders for repairs.

The Mariechen, after being salvaged at False bay by the steamer Salvor, of the B. C. Salvage company, a work for which the underwriters paid $37,000, was turned over to her owner by the underwriters on June 7th, and since then she has been lying piling up expenses day after day. The bill for the dry dock at Esquimalt amounted to over $5,000. When the steamer was offered for sale by auction here J. H. Greer, the shipping broker of this city offered $15,000 for the steamer. The bid was not accepted. Then a few days later R. C. McCormich, a speculating Tacoma man, offered $10,000 for the steamer. He was given an option at that price. Then another offer of $11,000 was made by Moritz Thompson of Seattle, and A. W. Hofus of Tacoma. That offer was accepted and the purchasers came to Victoria and ordered Messrs. Bullen to begin repairs. Fifty men were put to work to prepare the steamer for the repairs.

On the following morning, R. C. McCormich and Capt. C. C. Cherry, who came to inspect the vessel, arrived at Esquimalt and found fifty men at work.

They were angry, very angry. They told Capt. Schonbach of the things they intended to do. He told them that the cost of the workmen's wages would be borne by the German owner, and then the anger was part appeased. However, they concluded they didn't want the steamer. Then Messrs. Thompson and Hofus also refused to conclude the deal, and the steamer was thrown back on her owner, while the docks dues continued to increase. Now she has been sold for $5,000 to Mr. Schubach.

BOARD OF TRADE.

Business Transacted at Initial Meeting of Newly-Installed Council.

The council of the Board of Trade held its initial meeting yesterday afternoon. The new chairman of the board, J. A. Mara, was present as also were the following members: F. A. Pauline, Simon Leiser, C. H. Loring, T. W. Patterson, M. P. P., D. R. Ker, C. F. Todd, Geo. Carter, R. H. Swinton, H. G. Thompson, J. J. Shadforth, Richard Hall, M. P. P., Captain J. G. Cox and Secretary Elworthy.

A letter was received from the secretary of the Dominion Exhibition which will be held at Halifax, N. S., this year, asking the board to organize an exhibit from this coast. The matter was referred to the fisheries committee. A letter from the Tourist and Development Association was next read, asking if the board could furnish information as to the industries which could be profitably engaged in Victoria. This letter was referred to the board's committee on manufacturers.

It was proposed to prepare a paper for presentation to the representatives of the Manufacturers' association when they arrive in the city, and attention will be directed to the following industries: Cooperage, broom and brush factory, nail factory, glass factory, match factory, cheese factory, can factory, fruit preserving factory, canning factory, etc.

The quality of fruit and hops grown near Victoria will be referred to and the iron deposits on the coast of Vancouver Island will be mentioned.

Complaints were made of the inconvenience experienced by shippers in handling freight at the E. & N. depot in consequence of the congested accommodation. This matter will be brought to the notice of the proper authorities. In the discussion of this matter the Indian reserve was referred to, and a letter will be addressed to the mayor and council asking what steps are being taken towards the removal of the Indians. The fisheries committee were requested to look into the question of protection of salmon on the Fraser river. The regulations call for 1/3 of the mouth being kept free from nets, as it appears that this regulation is not being carried out.

The tender for the printing of the annual report was awarded to the Coloni Printers and Publishing Co.

CRICKET

Arrangements are being completed for the coming cricket week, which promises to be a very successful tournament. It is now certain that teams will be present from Kootenay, Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, New Westminster, and not least, Victoria. The Vancouver club will not be represented owing to the fact that it is impossible for all the members of the team to arrange their holidays for that week. However, it is quite probable that the Burrard club of Vancouver will be present. If the Burrard team complete arrangements, it will mean that six teams will be present to compete for the hand-some trophy kindly presented by C. A. Harrison of the Durand hotel. Although the schedule has already been published, the correct schedule has not been definitely arranged owing to the uncertainty regarding Vancouver and the addition of Kootenay; but it will be arranged as soon as definite information is received, and duly published. Through the kindness of the Oak Bay tennis association two matches will be played this day during the week, at the site of the Jubilee hospital grounds, the home of the V. C. C., and one at Oak Bay. The matches will be all-day ones, lunch and tea being served on the grounds. The local club are also preparing to entertain the visitors during their stay in the city. On Friday, August 24, a dance will be given in Assembly hall, at which the ladies of the hockey club have kindly consented to assist and make the dance a real success, and also entertain the visiting players.

Victoria weather and the support of the lovers of the game will make the tournament a most enjoyable one.

Mr. Higgins read the act carefully through.

Mr. Frank Higgins on behalf of witness suggested that if Mr. Higgins could say he did not know the name of the party that gave the information in the first instance it would be the end of the question.

Mr. Higgins—I do not.

At this point the Commissioner at Mr. Frank Higgins' suggestion allowed the answering of this question to remain over to the next sitting.

Before leaving the witness-box, however, Mr. Higgins made this emphatic statement: "I will not give away office secrets, confidences of a client unless you can compel me; and you must prove that you can do that before the next sitting. The letter giving me the information was type-written, and I do not know where the writer of that letter got his information."

BAIL IS FIXED AT FOUR THOUSAND

Experiences of Survivors of the Disaster in the Narrows at Vancouver.

The master of the steamer Princess Victoria, Capt. J. O. Griffith, has been arrested at Vancouver on a charge of manslaughter, and released on $4,000 bail. After the Princess Victoria continued on her way to Victoria after the collision with the tug Chehalis on Saturday, Robert H. Bryce, one of the survivors whose wife was drowned, preferred a charge of manslaughter against Capt. J. O. Griffith. Chief of Police Chisholm telephoned to John M. Langley, the local chief of police, asking him to arrest Capt. Griffith. On receipt of the telegram, Chief Langley discussed the matter with Capt. J. W. Troup, superintendent of the C. P. R. Steamship company, and decided to wait until Sunday morning and sent an officer to Vancouver on board the steamer with Capt. Griffith, who was still in command of the ferry liner. At 7:30 a.m. on Sunday, Sergeant Redgrave embarked on the Princess Victoria with the other passengers, his instructions being to keep Capt. Griffith under surveillance until the Vancouver police boarded the steamer on arrival at the terminal port. Capt. J. W. Troup, superintendent of the C. P. R. Steamship company and Mr. Bullock, chief detective of the C. P. R., were other passengers. Capt. Griffith was not informed of the action, although he surmised the object of the officer's journey. He was taken to the Vancouver police station on arrival of the steamer and Capt. Hickley, who had gone to Vancouver for that purpose, took command of the steamer. Capt. Griffith was promptly released on bail, $4,000 being deposited as bonds for him by C. P. R. officials.

Capt. Griffith appeared before the police magistrate at Vancouver yesterday morning on the charge of manslaughter and was remanded. Arrivals from Vancouver by the Princess Victoria yesterday stated that there was considerable feeling against him in some quarters, and one of the survivors approached him when he was entering the court house yesterday and threatened to assault him. The C. P. R. Steamship company is demanding that he be arrested.

Investigation Be Held
into the circumstances of the wreck, the officials being confident that investigation will show that the ferry steamer was not at fault. A despatch from Vancouver says: "Capt. Troup says Griffith blew two blasts of the whistle as he came up to signify he was going on the Chehalis' port. A moment later he was surprised to see the tug turn to port. He reversed the engines, and the propellers were backing when the collision came. J. O. Benwell says he was on the stern of the Chehalis with Chick. The latter said that the Victoria would run into them. Benwell said: 'No, we will have to go behind and out-side!'

Capt. J. O. Griffith is quoted as follows in describing the collision:

"We were rounding Brockton point, in the Vancouver narrows, and were bucking a heavy tide. In these narrows the tide runs like mill race and it requires careful handling to get a vessel through. As we came around the point there was a gasoline launch on our port bow and the tug Chehalis on the starboard. At this point the channel is so narrow that our only course was to steady our helm and go between the two craft. I was on the bridge with the pilot and ordered two whistles blown to notify the tug that I was to go to port. Suddenly I saw the tug swerve from her course and lay directly across our bows. I ordered full speed astern and the engines responded at once. I could not turn to the starboard without running down the gasoline launch and it was impossible to go to port for fear of striking the tug. I was in hopes that we would be able to back before the vessels struck. When we came within about a boat length the tide seemed to veer the tug around and her port quarter struck our bow. The momentum was so great that, added to the strong tide, it rolled the vessel over and in a quarter of a minute she went down. There was no smashing of the timbers or severe shock."

"I saw one man on the bow spring overboard just as we struck, and then others leaped from the craft. She went over like a flash, and before we could realize what had happened the tug had sunk. We at once got out our boats and picked up the survivors. They consisted of six people, the captain being among them. I at once went back to the Vancouver dock and landed the survivors. It was a deplorable affair."

Captain James Howse
master of the Chehalis, who was almost prostrated when carried ashore from the Princess Victoria at Vancouver, having received a severe blow in the side after the impact, had tears streaming down his cheeks as he related a few incidents regarding the accident. He said:

"I was heading for the north shore to get out of the flood current as much as possible. I thought we were making good time and did not bother about looking behind me. I had just altered my course a little more to starboard when I suddenly heard a whistle behind me, and looking back out of the pilot house I saw the Princess Victoria right on top of me."

"There was no chance for me to get out of the way then, but I put the helm hard over and attempted to get clear. Then the crash came. It was awful."

"The Chehalis rolled clean over, something struck me on the head just as I tried to get out of the wheel house when she righted again. Then I saw that the Chehalis was practically cut in two and sinking."

"I tried to get to Mrs. Bryce, whom I saw struggling in the water, to save her, but just then I was struck again. It hit me an awful blow in the side. It's beginning to hurt worse. I only wish Mrs. Bryce had been saved, and my poor engineer and foreman."

"At this point Capt. Howse's feeling overcame him and he sobbed convulsively. He attempted to rise, but the pain of his side was too much for him."

"Full of Small Pieces of Coal"

These were not there when I went down, and must have got in while I was under the water."

A sad scene occurred while Mr. Benwell was talking to a group of friends in the Union Steamship office. A lady entered and looking around, asked, "Does anyone know whether Mr. Benwell's little boy was saved?"

and he fainted.

W. Hester, a seafaring man, who has spent practically all his life on the water, was on the Princess. He said that the ship was coming through the narrows and that according to all rules she had the right-of-way. He also said that the Princess gave the signals required, which were responded to by the tug, but that the latter was caught in the strong tide rip and would not respond to the helm. "We struck her amidships and cut the other boat fairly in two. Every effort was made by the crew of our boat to save those who were on the tug, and we stopped within a few lengths. It was an unfortunate accident, but no blame can attach to the officers of the Princess."

Mr. C. A. Dean, the engineer of the Chehalis, was picked up out of the boiling tide-race by Lightkeeper Jones of Brockton Point. The engineer was suffering greatly from exposure and nervous shock. When the tug went down he was carried completely under, and for one sickening moment the whirling propeller-blades scraped his body. He struck for the surface, however, and Mr. Jones sighted him in the nick of time. Mr. Jones carried him to the lighthouse and gave him every attention, and a few hours afterwards he was sufficiently recovered to return to his home.

One of the most

of all was that of Mr. J. O. Benwell. Mr. Benwell, Mr. P. J. Chick and Mrs. R. H. Bryce were having luncheon together in the cabin when the collision occurred. Both Mr. Benwell and Mr. Chick rushed together to the door, and with hand clasped over hand vainly tried to open it. The tug by this time was sinking below the surface of the inlet, and the water was rushing into the cabin. By singular good fortune, Mr. Benwell got his head through a window, and passing through thus escaped and managed to reach the surface.

P. G. Shailcross, brother of J. J. Shailross of this city, another survivor said:

"I was not on deck when it happened but I got on deck very soon afterward, you may be sure. Just as I got to the deck I was hurled into the water. The current was running strong, and as I tried to swim toward the Princess Victoria I recognized Miss Tatlow up on deck among the passengers on the steamer. She threw me a life-preserver, and that undoubtedly saved my life, as I had almost exhausted myself trying to make headway against the current."

"I was sitting with Mrs. Bryce in the cabin when the boats were drawing together, and

as she drew near. I did not think of collision until I heard a man shout that the Victoria would strike us. With that I jumped up to get out of the cabin, and as I got on my feet I saw that Mrs. Bryce evidently not realizing the seriousness of the occasion or struck by fear, had not moved from her chair. I ran towards her, but just as I started there was a tremendous shock, and I was thrown against the side of the cabin. At this instant the water poured in, and in the darkness I could not locate her."

"Very fortunately I did not have heavy clothes on, I had changed my business suit for a flannel one, and had light shoes instead of boots. When the cabin was flooded, I thought that was the beginning of the end, for it seemed to be impossible to get out. Being a swimmer and used to the water, I held my breath until I felt my lungs pain, and in easing them I took a couple of gulps of water. At the same instant I felt a suction in the water, the two doors of the cabin being opposite each other. I struck on the side of one of the openings and managed to get through, though not without some difficulty. It was but a moment after that I was on the surface and breathed the good air once more. I the Victoria and came up on the other side. Another moment and I could not have stood it. The water I took was choking me, and had I not got into the suction by moving around as I was in my effort to escape I would soon have had enough water in me to send me down.

"I do not know what became of Mrs. Bryce. When the water made everything dark she was sitting where I saw her last, and I did not even feel her. When struggling in the water inside the cabin, I heard someone say that she came to the surface once, but I hardly think it possible. It is more than likely that she was imprisoned in the cabin and went down with the boat."

"An empty orange crate thrown to me by some of the deckhands on the steamer Princess Victoria is what I can thank for being here at present," said Mr. Rich, who was one of the saved. He too, was on his way up the coast on a camping trip with Mr. Shailross, and did not know of danger until the crash came.

Mr. Benwell, when seen after the accident, said that when the shock occurred, he was having luncheon in the cabin with Mrs. Bryce, Mr. Chick, and Mr. Shailross. They were having a pleasant time together, and were going to sit down and have a game of cards afterwards. "When the shock came," he said, "Mr. Chick and I rushed to the door together, and both placed our hands on the knob and tried with our combined force to open it. That was the last I saw of poor Chick, whose hand was in mine as he went down. By this time we were sinking rapidly into the inlet and the water was rushing into the cabin. Somehow or other I got my head through an open window, and I soon afterwards came to the surface. After swimming about for what seemed a terribly long time, I was picked up and brought ashore. A strange thing was that when I was in the water I saw the Princess Victoria right on top of me."

"There was no chance for me to get out of the way then, but I put the helm hard over and attempted to get clear. Then the crash came. It was awful."

"The Chehalis rolled clean over, something struck me on the head just as I tried to get out of the wheel house when she righted again. Then I saw that the Chehalis was practically cut in two and sinking."

"I tried to get to Mrs. Bryce, whom I saw struggling in the water, to save her, but just then I was struck again. It hit me an awful blow in the side. It's beginning to hurt worse. I only wish Mrs. Bryce had been saved, and my poor engineer and foreman."

"At this point Capt. Howse's feeling overcame him and he sobbed convulsively. He attempted to rise, but the pain of his side was too much for him."

DAILY REVIEW OF THE LOCAL MARKETS

Yesterday the market was added to by a load of apricots, which arrived in the early morning from Washington by the Princess Victoria. The apricots, with the exception of some being a little green, were in good condition and are selling well. Hayberries, however, berries are very uncertain, and a correct price cannot be stated. This is on account of the growers sending out in uncertain times. They will not be long before they are out of the market, the sun having dried them up somewhat. The dairy market has suffered several advances in price, eggs having risen to 35c. per dozen, and all butter to 35c.; while Mainland butter has risen from 25c. up to 30c. Eggs are now brought from Manitoba and de-

Six Months im "2 in 1."

A Consulting Chemist Makes a Novel Experiment. An Unsolicited Letter that Explains Itself.

I write to state that on account of your "2 in 1" Shoe Polish being criticised, and the charge made that it injured leather, I made this test as follows:

I mixed the contents of a box of "2 in 1" Shoe Polish, bought at a retail store from regular stock, with four ounces of water and into this mixture put a kid glove, and left the said glove in the mixture in a bottle from June 15th to December 15th, 1905—a full six months. I then took the glove out, washed it and examined it. The fine leather of the glove was not affected in the least. It was as pliable and soft as when new, and was not altered in condition, nor were the stitches affected in any way. This test, I consider, proves that "2 in 1" does not injure the finest leather.

I hereby state that these facts are correct and true.

"DOING THINGS" IN MIDSUMMER.

This is the time of the year when everybody relaxes (or feels like it, if he ever did); when it is hardest to keep up interest in everyday things—the time of all times when we most want to be entertained.

The wide-awake publishers of Everybody's Magazine must have had a keen appreciation of this spirit, for they have gone to work with all their might and main to get out just the kind of a magazine for midsummer calculated to take people in their own mood and to be sure to arouse their interest and hold it from beginning to end. Such is the August special fiction number of Everybody's Magazine.

Everybody's never did do things by halves. Always have been right at the "firing line" and in the "thick of the smoke" in asserting and upholding the rights of the American people against monopoly and greed and all sorts of wickedness in high places and low places. And Everybody's hasn't for one moment renched from its exalted position of proclaiming the rights of American citizenship and telling how to get and keep them.

But in this August number, sandwiched between the serious problems which it champions, is the liveliest and best collection of stories that could be found in a whole stack of magazines.

Everybody's secured such writers as these and urged them to do their best—and they did it; Jack London, Lloyd Osbourne, O. Henry, Arthur MacFarlane, William Bulfin and Roy Norton. And they enlisted artists like Phillip Goodwin, George Gibbs, Dan Smith, Martin Justice, Will Crawford and Karel Anderson to make pictures that captivate by their appropriateness to scene—and season.

In this August number of Everybody's the publishers have "done things up brown," and everybody who doesn't get it will miss a big money's worth—the best collection of current fiction, the intensely interesting fact-stories, and the pleasure and profit that accrue therefrom.

NERVOUS AND WORRIED.

Mr. Archibald Sutherland, Principal South Bay School, Sydney, N. S., writes: "I was greatly troubled with nervous dyspepsia, and after meals I often felt like vomiting and my stomach was sore, I would eat nothing, and my bowels were constipated, and I had headaches and shortness of breath. When several doctors failed I decided to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and it has entirely cured me. I shall be glad to be the means of bringing this medicine to the notice of any one who is suffering as I did."

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

New York, July 23.—The stock market here was slightly shaken by the developments in Russia over Sunday, in common with the world's other securities market, but relatively unshaken by the New York market, though the efforts had apparently passed by the course of an hour, by which time the constant absorption of stocks had restored the level of prices to where they left off on Saturday. There is no attempt to belittle the gravity of the situation in Russia from a political standpoint, but the drift of events has been so clearly foreshadowed and it is believed that the financial and banking world will act with a view to the present developments.

The action of foreign markets, however, seemed to threaten serious consequences for a time today. The special effect in the London market is due to the coming on August 1 next of an instalment of subscriptions to the last Russian loan, the heavy discount now ruling on the subscription price of the loan in that market points to severe loss on the underwriting and the forced manner of the distribution of the loan into investors' hands, than had been intimated at the time of the flotation.

SYSTEM REQUIRES FREQUENT CLEANSING.

Not only outside but inside as well your body must be frequently cleansed and purified. Otherwise it becomes loaded with wastes that clog up the wheels of health.

Much better to act in time. Use Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they strengthen and regulate the bowels, assist digestion, enrich the blood and thereby fortify the nerves and lay the foundation of lasting good health.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills bring vim and vitality so much so for today, they infuse a feeling of freshness and spirit in those who have been ailing for years. Really no medicine so potent. Price, 25 cents at all dealers or by mail from N. C. Polson & Co., Kingston, Ont., or Hartford, Conn., U. S. A.

JOURNALISTS DELIGHTED.

Progress of the Washington Correspondents in the West.

In conversation with a Winnipeg Free Press reporter on Friday last, Mr. George H. Ham spoke of the pleasure the Washington correspondents were deriving from their trip. They have touched at the leading towns of N. W. and have been much pleased with the scenes of the country, being around ground which was not visited by the party last year. After the visit at Edmonton and the trip over the Calgary and Edmonton line, the party will reach Banff on July 23, where they will spend two days and will reach Victoria on the 24th.

On the return trip the Mormon settlement to the south of Lethbridge will be inspected and the correspondents will satisfy themselves of the progress made by

G. H. MUMM & CO.'S EXTRA DRY is conceded to be the finest produced this decade. It is made from selected grapes of the choicest vineyards in the Champagne District and is noted for its superb quality, natural dryness and purity.

The Selected Brut is a brut Champagne of the very highest quality made of selected cuvees of vintage years specially adapted for brut wines. Connoisseurs pronounce it the finest brut imported. It is a very dry and genuine brut champagne of exceeding purity, without being heavy, and the 1895s, 1898s, 1899s and 1900s are unsurpassable.

Owing to the exceptionally fine vintages of 1898, 1899 and 1900, of which Messrs. G. H. MUMM & CO. have a tremendous stock, they will be enabled to supply all demands and maintain the same high quality for a long time to come.

G. H. MUMM & CO.'S EXTRA DRY is also put up in half pints (splits), in which style this excellent wine is especially adapted for physicians', fine club and restaurant use.
